* The publisher believes that these graceful and charming tales, conceived and written in the true traditional vein, but not on the traditional themes, will take their place in every nursery by the side of Grimm and Andersen.

Gerald the Welshman. By HENRY OWEN, D.C.L., F.S.A., Editor of George Owen's Pembrokeshire. A revised and enlarged edition. Crown 8vo, about 150 pp. Net 3s. 6d. [Ready November.]

* Mr. Owen's study of the Life and Times of Giraldus Cambrensis, originally issued in 1889, is the standard monograph on the Norman-Welsh ecclesiastic and statesman to whom we owe so much of our knowledge concerning Wales and Ireland in the 12th century.

The Hundred Love Songs of Kamal ad-din of Isfahan.

Translated from the Persian by ETHEL WATTS MUMFORD. With an Introduction by A. L. GRAY, Professor of Indo-Iranian Philology at Princeton University. Printed at the Constable Press in a limited issue of 200 copies.

* The publisher believes that this, the first translation into any Western tongue, of the Diwan of Kamal ad-din Ismazi, surnamed Khallak ul-Macani, slain in the Mongol invasion of 1237 A.D., will reveal him as one of the most genuine and passionate love poets of Eastern literature.

Extract from Author's Preface:—“The main purpose of the following pages, for which a Certificate of Research has been granted by the University of Cambridge, is to make a modest contribution of material to the future historian of the literary relations between the English and German speaking peoples by placing on record exactly what attention has been paid in England and America to the two great National Epics of Germany. Incidentally, it is hoped that some help and guidance may be afforded both to students and to intending workers in a field as yet more or less neglected.” [Ready November.]

THE MEDIAEVAL STAGE.

By E. K. CHAMBERS, M.A. With 2 Illustrations. 2 vols., 8vo, cloth, 25s. net.

Academy and Literature:—“Mr. Chambers marshals his facts as skillfully as he collects them diligently, and he presents them in an easy, unpretending, attractive style. Never rhetorical, he is always readable, even where his pages are what Dr. Johnson might have called impudent research. If not by actual discovery, at any rate by ingenious and suggestive co-ordination of facts, he has sensibly advanced the boundaries of knowledge. Scholars yet unborn will bless and magnify his name. Some of his conclusions they may revise, but the excellence of his method cannot but make his book permanently helpful.”

THE BOOK MONTHLY! THE BOOK MONTHLY !! THE BOOK MONTHLY !!!

JUST READY,

The FIRST NUMBER of

The Book Monthly.

An Illustrated Record, Guide, and Magazine for Booksellers, Librarians and Publishers, for Bookbuyers, Readers and Writers.

It is a Book-trade organ in a new and attractive form—a pictured and picturesque What's What and Who's Who of Bookland—and a magazine about the books of the day.

Facts and forecasts, information and guidance—that is The Book Monthly; not literary criticism. It seems to be indispensable to booksellers and bookmen generally, and agreeably useful to the general reader.

The Book Monthly appeals to everybody concerned with books, saying, "Here you will find a budget of gossip and ideas, a forecast and chronicle of affairs literary, a considered catalogue of the publications of the month." Here is information, intimate, compact, clear; for we live in days when business, to be well done, is done quickly, though, happily, there are still many people content to read books leisurely.

The Book Monthly is published through the great distributing house of the book trade, Messrs. Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent & Co., its price is 6d. net, it consists of 100 pages, including a distinctive cover, and it is very well printed.
